I had no idea about home contents auctions until a flyer arrived in my mail box.

I decided to find out about it and spoke to Adam who provided all the information as to how the process worked and was also happy to provide contact details of people who had already used Charleston's for their auctions.

After listening to glowing reviews, we decided to give it a go.

After going through the whole process I have to say that it was an amazing and painless experience.

The only job we had to do was decide which items we wanted to sell.

Adam and his team came in a couple of days before and prepared the house ready for auction.

On the day of the auction we had 250 plus people attend and it was an outstanding success!

We were able to sell almost everything and the total price we achieved was a very pleasing result.

Adam and his team came in the day after the auction to pack up and clean the house!

This is a wonderful way to dispose of your house furniture and items when you are selling.

It is quick and painless, with little work required on the vendor's part and best of all you are left with an empty, clean house at the end of the process and a nice addition to your bank balance.

Thank you Adam and team for providing such a wonderful service and being so professional in all aspects of the process.

We have absolutely no hesitation in recommending Charleston's home contents auction to anyone considering using their services.

Hi Adam

Thank you for your time and energy at our home contents auction at 17 Montah Avenue, Killara. We are extremely happy with the results and the way you conducted the whole process. Below is a reference we are happy for you to share with future clients and use for other marketing purposes.

If any of your clients around the area would like to talk to us, we'd be happy to give a verbal reference. Just pass on our details to them and give us a heads up that they might call.

Adam managed the home contents auction at our home on Montah Avenue in Killara. Throughout the process he was extremely helpful and went out of his way to ensure the best results. From the start right to the end, Adam and his team were courteous, helpful and professional. The installation and clearing up was done with great care. On the auction day, he and his team were there early and were set up ready to go before we even arrived! We were so impressed with the auction and with the way Adam handled it. Adam is a brilliant auctioneer – going beyond to get the best price from the larger items right down to the glassware! The result for us was more than expected and we would highly recommend him and his team to anyone.

To whom it may concern

We are clients of Charleston's, having attended a number of their Fine Art Auctions and Home Contents Auctions. We like their style and professionalism in conducting auctions.

As we are transitioning to a new home with entirely different decor, our decision was to engage Charleston's to conduct a Home Contents Auction to help us conveniently sell our remaining contents in one single effort. The sales process worked well with items sold and transported away the same day – the auction was a resounding success in every respect with minimal inconvenience compared with attempting to sell multiple items over the internet.

We strongly recommend anyone in a similar situation to use Charleston's to conduct a Home Contents Auction. Visit one of their auctions to see for yourself – we are sure you will leave very impressed!

Charleston's took care of and paid for everything. Our only task was to decide and list what we wanted to sell and provide photos for the extensive print and online advertising campaign.

The Charleston's team has a certain 'energy'; they know what they're doing and each individual goes about their role professionally and with ease. On the day prior to the auction they arrived with a truck of fine art, Persian rugs, sculptures and bronzes' to complement our contents. They quickly got to work hanging the art and ornaments displaying items with consummate expertise.

Adam Kant (as our key contact and auctioneer) was a pleasure to deal with – everything that was promised was delivered 100%. The whole team was punctual and went efficiently about their business.

Auction day was exciting. With over 400 people through the pre-auction viewing and about 200 registered bidders, our house and yard was full of people. Adam conducted the auction with flair, clearing our items for a sum that was fair and reasonable – Adam did a great job in realistically managing our expectations.

At the end of the day and well into the night, Charleston's completed the pack down, delivered items to purchasers and left our home spotlessly clean. We were both very impressed by the experience and wouldn't hesitate to do it all again. In fact it's the only way to go if you are upsizing, downsizing, needing a new look or simply have some unwanted contents to clear from your home before your next move.

Our view of Adam and the team at Charleston's was certainly only enhanced by our positive experience.

For anyone looking to downsize their belongings for whatever reason, I would not hesitate to wholeheartedly recommend Charleston's. From our very first contact with Adam the process was so easy - essentially all we had to do was indicate the items we were wanting to auction off and Charleston's did the rest. We were given very realistic guides as to what we could hope to realise from each item and then the items were catalogued and listed for sale. Setup and auction day itself went without a hitch and we could not believe how many people attended - it was astonishing to see our items being snapped up and the final tally for all our goods exceeded our expectations. The team is unbelievably friendly and professional and within 24 hours of the auction Adam had emailed us through an itemised list of the goods we had sold, the funds were in our bank account and the house was clear of all goods. An amazing result with minimal effort from us. It truly is an amazing way to turn unwanted possessions into cash in one fell swoop - if you have a number of goods to sell (anything from kettles to antiques) forget about selling on Gumtree or having a garage sale - Charleston's Home Contents Auctions is the way to do it!

Dear Danny,

I just wanted to thank you for the exceptionally professional manner in which you conducted the auction of our home contents in Surrey Hills in Melbourne. Both my husband and I are absolutely delighted with the result.

You were a pleasure to deal with and made everything easy and completely stress free for us. Your advertising campaign was thorough and effective and drew a very large crowd. Your organisation on the day was impressive from the seating, heating, catering (everyone enjoyed the free BBQ) as well as the professional way you managed the auction process itself. Everything sold and at prices I would not have considered possible. We were delighted!

I also cannot believe how clean and tidy you left the property. Despite the long day you still managed to get a listing to us that very evening and the money was in my bank account the next day. I have recommended you to all my friends as this was the best decision we have made since selling our house. Good luck with your business and I am sure we will see you in our neighbourhood sometime soon.

All the very best,
Michelle Gray
